CHIEF APPEALS FOR SAFE, SANE FOURTH

McFarland Says Shooting of Fireworks Increases Fire Hazard 100 Per Cent.

Appeal for a safe and sane July fourth was made by Fire Chief T J McFarland this morning in view of the accidental fires that invariably accompany an explosive observance of the day

Two of the most dangerous days of all the year so far as fire risks are concerned are the fourth of July and Christmas Chief McFarland said The fire hazard on both of these days is increased by almost 100 per cent

Clean your premises of inflammable litter and rubbish of all kinds and keep a garden hose ready for instant use Chief McFarland advised Learn where the nearest firebox is located and in case of fire promptly turn in an alarm

Although police have banned the shooting of fireworks inside the corporate limits it is expected that some noisy celebration will mark the observance of the day here

We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. Daily Proverb—"Variety alone gives joy; the sweetest meats the soonest cloy."

The fancy colored wine and whisky glasses in the White House have been packed and stored away, which is as it should be. We never had any use for colored glassware ourself.

The Ohio Bankers' association has asked Attorney General Gilbert Bettman to reconsider his ruling that proceeds of life insurance policies administered by trustees are subject to the Ohio inheritance tax, holding that the enforcement of the ruling will drive business from the state to the extent of $1,000,000,000. Is there to be no end to the legalized pillaging of estates to make more food for the tax-eaters?

The scientists claim to have discovered a cluster of mighty worlds which is sailing away from the earth at a speed of 7,200 miles a second. Compared to such speed, that we puny beings here on earth have developed is practically standing still.

Columbus reports that bids on highways, accepted by State Highway Director Robert N. Wald, Tuesday, will cause an estimated outlay of nearly $6,000,000. Wonder if the promised reduction of the cost of country produce in the event of the construction of a state system of fine roads has been anything like the scores of millions expended for roadways? Frankly, country produce prices seem to be mounting year by year.

It is well that Bernt Balchen was the guest at honor at a banquet in New York City at which 2,000 were present and he was decorated with the medal of the Norwegian Order of St. Olaf by the special order of King Haakon V of Norway. Considering his accomplishments in exploration and adventure, it was time that some such tributes were paid to him.

Identical notes to our missions in Latin America for delivery to the governments to which our diplomats are accredited show that the right to intervene in their affairs is not given sanction under the Monroe doctrine, as interpreted in 1928. The course of the government may result in forcing on the Latin Americans, as well of many here at home, recognition of the fact that they have a wrong conception of the doctrine as interpreted under the Kellogg treaty.

The lower house of congress has voted for the printing of 10,000 more of the copies of the testimony on the dry law hearings, so great has been the demand. It is gravely to be feared that the taste of the reading public has not made the advance it has been credited with having made.

Congressman Oscar de Priest has made public a telegram from Birmingham, Alabama, signed "Ku Klux Klan," advising him that his presence there, where he is scheduled to speak July 17, is not desired. The signers might have taken a lesson from the course followed by former Governor Smith at the time Senator Heflin took it upon himself to invade the North.

Wives and Railroad Accidents.

At first glance little connection can be seen between breakfasts and railroad accidents, yet M. J. Flanigan, manager of the safety bureau of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad sees a connection, holding that wives who prepare breakfast for their railroader husbands and are pleasant in serving them are factors in preventing accidents on railroads.

"Many an accident," is the way Manager Flanigan puts his case, "can be traced to family rows. Any man who goes to work without any breakfast, or who has to grab something cold out of the icebox, or who gulps his breakfast to the tune of a word battle with his wife, is just three times as liable to bungle his work or confuse his orders as the man who has a good warm meal and is mentally at peace."

It's not easy to foresee what the reaction of wives of railroad men to this pronouncement by the head of this railroad's safety bureau may be. They may regard having responsibility for railroad accidents thus placed upon them. On the other hand, it may work to secure their cooperation in working for railroad safety.

If there is a weakness in Mr. Flanigan's contention more apparent than another, it is the implication that responsibility for word battles at the breakfast time falls upon the wife, when all the world knows that the lords of creation are just as prone to start a verbal war as their better halves. In any event, he goes on record as one who is not in accord with the view that pretty much all the world is taking its meals, including breakfasts, at restaurants.

People Seeking Trees and Shrubbery.

Some days since comment on the estimated population of New York City was made in these columns. At that time the estimate was 6,716,563, which in itself was over 400,000 greater than a forecast made by the census people a few weeks earlier. Within the last two or three days the estimate has grown a couple of hundred thousand, and today those tabulating the census returns figure that the city's population will be 6,911,554.

Why this surprising change in a period of a few days? The explanation comes from the census people, who frankly confess that they were surprised. It is this: the increase in population in the outskirts of the city was found to be out of all proportion to what was anticipated, the influx of families into the open spaces upsetting all expectation. The trend of the city dweller, the New York census shows, is toward trees and green grass and all the other greenery of nature.

What is the lesson to be drawn from this by inland cities such as this in which we live if not that we should preserve our trees and shrubbery and the green of our lawn grades? Yet right here at home, as in most cities, we are cutting down our trees and narrowing our lawn grades to construct new paved streets or widen old ones. We are sacrificing that which makes our residential sections desirable to facilitate the movement of motor traffic.

Many residents who have passed but little beyond middle life can recall the time when practically every street in Marion was lined on both sides with beautiful shade trees. A drive over the streets and avenues of the city will show to them, if not to the younger generation, how shamefully the beautiful trees of the city have been sacrificed in cutting down grades and making other alterations in the name of street improvement.

We have been destroying what the big cities of the land today consider treasures and are doing their utmost to grow along the traffic lanes of their fine residential sections.

Superior Judge Marcus Kavanaugh, of Chicago, back home after a month's study of the workings of British courts, says he will offer recommendations to the Illinois legislature for the adoption of court procedure similar to that of the British over here. The judge may have an illustration of that old saying about leading the animal to the trough being one thing and making it drink quite another.

Regarding a New Zoning Ordinance.

The plan to enact a new zoning ordinance, informally discussed by members of council and unofficially arrived at, is a good one and should be carried into execution at once. It's a duty which council owes the city to protect its residential sections from business or industrial encroachments.

From news reports it may be taken that the weakness of the present ordinance is the judgment of the court of appeals is not in its form, but in the date of its enactment. If such is the case, the drafting of a new ordinance will prove an exceedingly simple matter provided, of course, the provisions of the present ordinance are satisfactory.

No matter what determination may be reached regarding the carrying of the matter to the state supreme court, there should be a new ordinance. If the matter is carried up and the court should decide in favor of the city, no harm would be done. If the court's decision should be adverse, the city would be in infinitely better position with an ordinance in force than it would be without one.

There is very general agreement that the city should be zoned. In line with that feeling, the utmost diligence should be exercised that there be no delay in establishing a zoning system under an ordinance which will stand up under attack.

A new ordinance should be passed at once.

Ambassador Dawes has left Chicago to return to London. If the world fair program was thoroughly threshed out during his very limited visit, it will go to confirm the long-established opinion that the ambassador is one grand hustler.

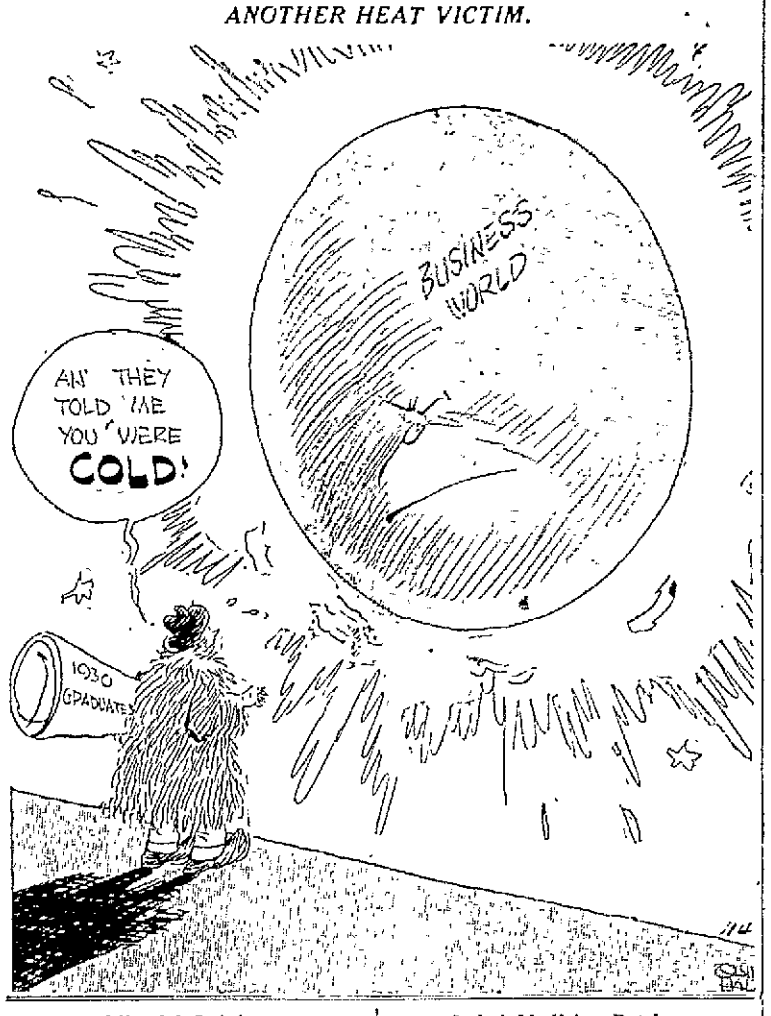
Dr. Malcolm L. Harris, of Chicago, retiring president, told the convention of the American Medical association in session in Detroit that medical centers must be established by the physicians of the United States for the benefit of the poor and "white collar" classes or they would see medicine socialized and find themselves employed by the state. Wonder if we hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs can get in on that if we take to white collars?

A census of the Bronx Zoo, New York City, which covers 634 acres, shows a population of 583 mammals, 1,311 birds, 390 reptiles and only two human beings. That's out of all proportion to the ratio which might have been suspected, even in these Volsteadian days.

A sixty-mile chase by home guards of four bandits who held up a bank at Noble, Illinois, and made off with $10,000 in cash and securities valued at $30,000, resulted in the capture of two of the quartet and the surrounding of their companions in a piece of woodland from which escape is hardly possible. It's a mystery why bandits do not confine their operations to big cities, where the chances of escaping are good. Instead of tackling small-town banks where capture is almost certain.

At the coming November election the voters of Oregon will decide the fate of a proposed amendment to the constitution of their state which, if approved, will make illegal the manufacture or sale of cigarets or the materials entering into them and make unlawful the importing, possession, purchase, or giving away of cigarets or the makings. With the entire country engaged in trying out one "noble experiment," it might be well for the individual states to refrain from complicating the situation by similar experiments of their own.

ANOTHER HEAT VICTIM.



Editorial Opinion.

EMPTY WORDS.

Approximately 7,050,719,035 empty words have been spilled upon the heads of graduates of both sexes by willing and unwilling baccalaureate speakers in the last few weeks. And the willingest the speakers were, the emptier were the words.

At least one gross of these assorted speakers dragged that old squib out from the physiology books about a man being worth ninety-eight cents exactly. This gem of popularized science, which at this late day even, some naive rural correspondents see fit to put upon the telegraph wires, goes on to say that any man's body, reduced to its chemical elements, lime and salts, and whatnot, is worth ninety-eight cents at the drug-store. Lofty admonitions as to improving this worth by study, application, and other copy-book virtues, then follow in the words of the sweating orator.

An unbelieving soul by nature, we went to the drug-store to find out about this ninety-eight-cent business.

"The baccalaureate speakers," we began, to the attentive clerk, "say I am worth ninety-eight cents. I would like to sell myself for that sum, and you have my permission to divide me into lime, salts, and whatnot."

The courteous clerk, listening, turned to the cash register and pressed a key. Whereupon the steely interior of the machine went whirring about, there was a bell-tinkle, a sound like "zing!" and the little placards popped up in place where little placards pop up in cash registers. It said in large, uncontrovertible letters: "No Sale!"

And that was that. The baccalaureate speakers were just talking to get their names in the paper, that's all. If we were a graduate, we wouldn't pay too much attention to them at all. We'd just go out in the world and get along as best we could, with a firm, if cloudy, hope that everything will come out all right. It probably will.—Columbus Citizen.

A FAMOUS VICTORY.

The entire country will thrill to the accomplishment of Colonel Roberto Fierro in flying from New York to Mexico City in sixteen hours. Especially in view of the tragedy which overtook the attempt of Captain Carranza two years ago to negotiate this difficult non-stop feat it will rejoice that a Mexican has done it, and, in doing it, has bettered Colonel Lindbergh's time by a matter of eleven hours. Here was a challenge which, under the circumstances, our southern neighbors could not ignore. That they have met it and, incidentally, lowered the record for the trip, is cause for international congratulation.

Three years have passed since Colonel Lindbergh loaded his Ryan monoplane with its staggering supply of gas and faltered into the air above Boiling Field. In the interim enormous strides have been made in the art of long-distance flight. Fierro, for instance, had a power plant in his plane almost twice the size of Lindbergh's. He benefited, too, from a more accurate survey of weather conditions along his route which he had the patience to permit to govern his date of departure. And he knew his terrain. In pointing all this out we have not the slightest desire to detract from the splendor of his achievement. Our idea is merely to indicate that aviation, which is bigger and more important to the advancement of mankind than the exploit of any individual pilot, deserves to be generously remembered in the hour of Colonel Fierro's triumph.

He won, but so did it, and in Souther's words, "twas a famous victory."—New York Herald Tribune.

MORE SUGAR.

Heavy consumers of sugar dream less, lie awake less, and are more cheerful in the morning, declares a research-ching scientist.

About the same time this sweet stuff was handed out, a government statistician finished adding up his column of figures on candy, and announced that the American people consumed last year twelve pounds of candy per capita, or one pound more than they did in 1928.

Per capita, that is. But there are complainants who will say that not everybody is getting his share. Recalling snores and tossings, and hair-raising nightmares, evidenced by the phenomena of the night, and looking back on sourballs who grumped their way through breakfast, these will look to President Hoover, or somebody, to get the machinery of distribution working more efficiently, in order that more men and women they know shall be more heavily sugared.

Sweeten the corner where you are!—Minneapolis Journal.

The Word of God.

Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.—Eph. 3:20, 21.

Prayer—Our Heavenly Father, may Thy mercy toward us never cease.

Label Medicine Bottles.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

We all hate to read accounts of persons who are accidentally poisoned. But such a regrettable occurrence may happen in your home if you keep unlabeled bottles in your medicine cabinet.

Under no circumstances should you permit a bottle or box to stand in your home without the proper label. If the contents are poisonous, have printed on it the word "poison" in big letters.

Often when you want a drug you are in a hurry or upset by the very accident or sudden illness which calls for the use of the drug. This makes it easy to forget the location of the particular bottle you want.

All drugs are more or less poisonous. Even though some particular drug may seem mild to you, it may be harmful to a susceptible person. For this reason if no other, it is unwise to take any drug unless it is prescribed by the doctor.

Medicines to be of value must be fresh. If kept too long they get stale and germs multiply in the liquid. Ointments, particularly those made with an animal or vegetable oil, soon become rancid. Some drugs lose their medicinal value when exposed to light and air.

Many a housewife who is careful that her pantry shelves contain only fresh seasoning and flavoring, will have on her medicine shelf stale and rancid drugs. These, too, may be in unlabeled bottles or boxes.

I have seen terrible accidents happen from putting the wrong medicine in the eye. In the worst case I ever saw the victim was a doctor.

The average household needs very few drugs, especially drugs which can do any harm. Have one place where all the household remedies are kept. This should be a dark and dustless receptacle located in a cool place. Have every bottle and box plainly labeled, showing the ingredient, its strength and the date of purchase.

Always, no matter what the hurry, read the label before applying the remedy. If you do this there will never be a mistake in your home.

Antoine Lavoisier.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Lavoisier, who has been not inaptly termed the father of modern chemistry, reaped richly where others had sowed. During a visit to the continent of Priestley and his patron, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Priestley explained to Lavoisier how he had obtained "dephlogisticated air" by heating red oxide of mercury, in 1774. For almost two centuries preceding, scientists labored under the delusion known as the "phlogiston theory." This was the belief that combustible bodies consisted of an invisible substance called "phlogiston" and a ash or "calx."

Priestley was an erratic experimenter who was under the domination of this fantastic theory. Lavoisier, animated with the true spirit of modern science, set to work to determine the nature of the gas isolated by Priestley. He proceeded to repeat Priestley's experiments in the reverse direction, causing the so-called "dephlogisticated air" to unite with mercury under quantitative conditions.

In one of his experiments, as recorded by Dampier-Whetham in his "History of Science," Lavoisier heated to just below its boiling point four ounces of mercury in contact with fifty cubic inches of air. Red calx of mercury was formed and increased till the twelfth day. The weight of the calx was forty-five grains, and the volume of the residual air was forty-two to forty-three cubic inches, five-sixths of the original volume, so that seven to eight cubic inches had been used up. The residual air would not support combustion, and small animals died in it in a few minutes.

The forty-five grains of red calx were then heated strongly in a small retort. Forty-one and a half grains of metallic mercury and a gas were formed. The latter was collected over water, measured, and found to fill seven to eight cubic inches and to weigh three and a half to four grains. But forty-one and a half plus three and a half make up forty-five grains, so that all the substance was accounted for. The total mass had remained constant. The gas maintained both flame and life more vigorously than ordinary air.

Lavoisier's own words on this subject deserve quotation: "Reflection on the conditions of this experiment shows that the mercury on calcining absorbs the salubrious and respirable portion of the atmosphere, and that the portion of the air which remains behind is a noxious kind of gas incapable of supporting combustion and respiration. Hence atmospheric air is composed of two elastic fluids of different and so to speak opposite nature."

Lavoisier thus gave the death blow to the phlogiston theory. He showed that it was quite superfluous. Lavoisier, by the unanswerable argument of the balance, showed that although matter may alter its state in a series of chemical actions, it does not change in amount. The quantity of matter is unaltered.

Lavoisier gave to the part of the air, with which a substance during burning combines chemically, the name oxygen—which means the acid-forming element. The water-forming element, or gas, which was one of the constituent elements of water, he named hydrogen. To the gas, which constitutes four-fifths of air, he gave the name nitrogen, which means "material of nitre."

Lavoisier's "Elementary Treatise on Chemistry," published in 1789, introduced a complete change in the nomenclature of science, and revolutionized the entire subject of chemistry. It is one of the most ironic circumstances of history that Lavoisier was guillotined!—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

Types Seen at Sea.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

On the Atlantic, June 26—An Atlantic voyage attracts a collection of types as distinct as a first night at the Metropolitan, the opening of Belmont or a Ziegfeld premiere. There are few places so auspicious for strutting as a ship's salon, smoker or promenade deck.

There is invariably the art dealer whose coat lapel is threaded with the red of French honors. Also the glacial lady with hearily-kohled eyes and bright nails who becomes "the mystery woman." She smokes cigarets through a long holder and has a French maid named Fifi.

She is variously reported as the cream de Chine companion of an international banker or an American wife incognito galloping to Paris for a week-end divorce. Too, the blond dancing twins on their way to fill an engagement at the Kit Kat or some other London night club.

In the bar will always be found a tweed-and monocled fellow who only lifts his face from what must be an absorbing book long enough to say "Cheerio Reggie" or "Howdy du Trevor" to some passing acquaintance. He sips tea all day long and you can have my stock in him—at panic prices.

The salon may be depended upon to furnish at least one torquet lifting and dumpy dowager of whom some blundering chap will inquire: "First trip?" only to receive her withering: "Forty-second!" accompanied by a high-nosed sniff. She has a dried-up little husband who trots after her like a poodle.

Then there is the trigger-minded worldling who is always saying the things you wish you might have said. He knows everybody on the boat and is calling the captain "Cap" the second day out. He is the sort you don't care to talk to, but you somehow want him around.

On every ship one will find this assortment, along with the venerable white-haired couple who sit holding hands and thrilling to the first trip abroad; the porcine gentleman whose expansive shirt front refuses to stay put and the inevitable straw blond who is the ship's vamp.

An ocean voyage stresses the nuisance of the telephone in our high-keyed civilization. Telephoning to ships has not reached the stage of bother as yet and the relief is a high spot. When I acquire coupon clipping callouses I intend to have a dead telephone placed under a glass in my up-the-Hudson castle and bound out of bed every morning to dance around and thumb my nose at it.

The only two books visible in the captain's quarters were "History of the United States" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blonds."

Incidentally, I am told the lady-whose-name-is-not-mentioned-here recently sent the society reporter of a New York paper an autographed copy of a book she authored reading: "To Maury—Who I Adore!"

Perhaps the most-discussed couple aboard ship is a high-jumping flapper with a wild frizz of orange hair and a sleek black-haired gigolo type. She wears sandals, but no stockings, and they walk around deck sipping brandy from wide and delicately flanged glasses. They seem perpetually blotto. The rumor is they are newly weds from Chicago but I am one of those "O Yeah?" boys who always suspect the worst—and I wonder why they call it the worst?

My choice for ship reading is the blood thirsty. Last night I had a big time as we rolled along. There were Scotland Yard men, a one-eyed Chinese, the villainous "Rat of Los Angeles" and Kitty, the Gimp, fighting for the Duchess' jewels in the dank causeways of Limehouse. I awakened dreaming Harry Thaw was under the bed with a jeweled dirk.

The ship's bells have just tolled 4 a. m. The aquamarine blue of the sea is tinged with the lovely pink of another dawn. And forgive a sottie for recalling that beautiful and classical line: "And jocund day stands tiptoe on the misty mountain tops!" The sea makes you mushy like that.—Copyright, 1930, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A university professor—Milton George Gail, of Northwestern—has been investigating schools boys and girls to find out how much they know about the Bible and how much of it they really understand. More than half of the 20,000 pupils studied showed they didn't understand what it was all about. Most of us remember the Sunday-school lessons of old. How far they were removed from life! There is some change and some improvement today, but not enough. The lessons still taught in thousands of Sunday-schools each week have little to do with contact between modern people and contact with modern life. What young folk needs is some help and guidance in the peculiar problems which they face. Why not Sunday-school teachers who face life as it is and do their best to show youngsters the better road?

When distinguished men and women of one of the largest cities in the country gather for the sole purpose of expressing their appreciation and gratitude for the service of one man, it must mean that the man honored has achieved high place. And when we learn that the man singled out for praise is not a prosperous and successful business man, as the world defines success, we begin to rearrange our values and wonder what success is. The other night in Chicago some of the most eminent citizens gathered to tell Graham Taylor what he was and what he had done. Thirty-six years ago Graham Taylor left the campus of a Chicago school, of which he is still a faculty member, to make his permanent home in an immigrant neighborhood. He established a social settlement house. More than that, he began to touch thousands of lives. He has given his life to pointing the better way to multitudes. We hear that life is short, but if life goes past average length, what a tremendous swath a man can cut in it if only he is more interested in doing something for others than he is in "putting himself across!"

Clergymen, editing one day's edition of a southern newspaper, made but one change. They threw out an article telling folk how to improve their bridge game. Not to discuss the merits of bridge as recreation or mental exercise, the action indicates the reaction and procedure of most of us when confronted with problems and opportunities. In a world of baffling, vital, unsolved problems, we decide that it may be morally deteriorating to play bridge or print articles about it.

And while we are on the subject of bridge and other huge problems, let us look about us. With a great unemployment problem, with the evils that have grown out of the failure of prohibition enforcement, with a half dozen other questions of great force confronting the American people, we get "all het up" because somebody finds a slot machine in the back of a grocery. And so we go on, hunting camels with pea shooters and straining gnats with sledge hammers.

BY BOB ELLIOTT

They came mighty close last evening—those Central Christians—but they don't pay off on close ones anymore in recreation ball than they do in anything else, so today the Christians are definitely out of the second church loop race and Wesley is still a big threat to Lee Street and all as a result of the 7 to 6 defeat handed the Christians by Tom Lashey and his cohorts.

Lee Street won and so finished the first round undefeated. Wesley is right behind with six won and one lost but Christian and Forest Lawn, tied for third at four won and three lost can hardly be given a chance. The streeters blanked St. Paul 7 to 0. Forest Lawn shut out Presbyterians 4-0, and Reformed beat U. B. 11 to 9 to get out of the cellar.

The Christians took a chance on a comparative kid last night to hurt against Wesley and it turned out that there wasn't much chance to it. The winners solved him for two hits and one run in the first inning and then for four more runs in the second on the same number of hits. Wally Schneider took up the hurling burden and those six runs were all that Wesley collected until the seventh when Layman had gone out. G. Lashey walked. Bush forced him at second but W. Gustin and T. Lashey hit in succession to score Bush.

Rally Too Late

The losers got to Tony Lashey for a run in the first, third, fourth and sixth innings to make the score 7 to 4 as the final half of the seventh got under way. Schneider opened with a hit and everybody was safe on Willum's error on Geissler. Fetter tried to sacrifice the runners along but Lashey fielded perfectly to throw Schneider out at third. Gillis popped out to Lashey but Neal came through with a single that tallied Geissler. Klein also hit safely and Fetter plated. With the tying run on base Ernie Arndt, who had hit on his last appearance to the plate drove a grounder to George Bush and the game was over.

First Reformed solved Dutch Zuspan for only nine hits but manufactured 11 runs out of them and escaped from the cellar with an 11 to 9 win over U. B. They won the game in the third when five runs came in without the aid of a hit. U. B. got to Meiley for 11 hits but only nine runs, so now are tied with St. Paul for last place.

Richards hurled Lee Street to its seventh consecutive victory when he blanked St. Paul 7 to 0. The losers only touched him for three singles collected by Weber, P. Lindsey and D. Lindsey. Lee street drove out 13 hits in their win. The leaders will point now to the crucial game of the season, their tilt with Wesley next Monday evening at Lincoln Park.

Kellogg Stars

Forest Lawn threw Matt Kellogg at the Presbyterians and he hit them right in the face with a 4 to 0 shutout. This young speed ball king is looking like the find of the season and has tossed some awfully nice games for the K. of P. nine and Forest Lawn. In addition to pitching the shutout he reached first every time he was at bat yesterday and scored once which isn't a bad day's work for any pitcher.

CRIPPLED CUBS MEET ROBINS IN IMPORTANT 4-GAME SERIES

Flatbush Outfit Holds One Game Lead as Result of Pirate Defeat.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Separated by one game in the standing, the Robins and the Cubs open in Chicago today a series of four games which probably will decide which will reach July 4, the traditional turning point of the season, on top.

Brooklyn has held first place for about a month with a crippled Cub team hanging right onto the next rung of the ladder. The Robins did a little sliding yesterday as they lost their final game before invading Wrigley Field to the Pittsburgh Pirates. They can lose again today and still remain ahead but only by a few percentage points.

The Robins could not hit the offerings of Ray Kremer yesterday, getting but seven rather ineffective blows. Pittsburgh touched Dudley and Clark for eleven blows and a 5 to 1 victory. The Cubs hit the Philadelphia pitching much more freely but barely pulled out the game by a 13 to 12 score to sweep the three game series and score their eighth victory in their last nine starts. Gabby Hartnett drove in the winning run in the ninth inning after his two home runs and a single had brought in five other runs.

Reds Win Again

The Cincinnati Reds shoved the New York Giants deeper into third place, by winning the series final, 11 to 3, to break even in the four games. Starting against an Ex-Red, Pete Donohue, they pounded out 18 hits while Red Lucas held the Giants to half that number.

It was Babe Ruth day again in the American League as the home run king hit two wallops of his favorite kind to lead the New York Yankees to a double victory over the St. Louis Browns in their third straight double header. Ruth hit his 25th and 26th home runs in the second game, heading a 20 hit attack that resulted in a 10 to 4 triumph after the Yanks had Robbie Will Throw All His Strength at Bruins To Hold League Lead, edged out a 5 to 1 victory in the opener.

The day's results were all in favor of the Yankees, leaving them only a half game behind Washington and two behind the league leading Philadelphia Athletics. The Senators held onto second place by beating the Cleveland Indians for the fourth successive time, 13 to 5. Washington scored 11 runs in the seventh.

The Athletics got an even break with the Chicago White Sox, romping through the first game 8 to 1. Chicago took the second, 7 to 2.

Jack Russell of the Boston Red Sox had just one bad inning against Detroit, the eighth, but that was enough to give the Tigers the game, 4 to 3.

O K JUDGE, WE'RE BEHIND YOU, TOO

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 26—Hereafter a foul ball landing among spectators at Wrigley Field is legally a lost ball—for the Cubs—unless an usher grabs it first.

Municipal Judge Allegretti decided that yesterday in dismissing charges against a boy, who picked up one of Hack Wilson's foul tips and refused to surrender it to an insistent usher.

"I don't blame you for taking the ball," Judge Allegretti said. "If one came my way at a ball game, why I'd grab it, too."

LOCAL BASEBALLERS PERFORM AGAIN AS MARION MERCHANTS

Willard To Furnish Opposition in Game Next Sunday Afternoon at Park.

For the rest of the present season at least the Marion professional ball team will play under the name of the Marion Merchants after a short sojourn under the banner of the Steam Shovel Athletic Association. Last Sunday the Shovel relinquished its right in the team in favor of Jimmy Ruzzo, who will take care of the business end of the team for the rest of the summer.

The first game that the local team will play under its rejuvenated name will be against the Willard Stupfs Drug next Sunday afternoon at Lincoln Park. The game will be called at 2:30 with Bert Curtis handling the indicator.

The Willard team is one of the toughest semi-pro nines in northern Ohio and have won three out of the four games they have played this summer in the Northwestern Ohio baseball league of which they are a respected member. This will be the second appearance of the Willard team in Marion in the past three years, the first engagement having ended in an extra inning Marion victory. That game was lost by Willard by one run when their substitute right fielder failed to catch a fly for the third out that would have retired the side scoreless.

They will bring practically the same team that appeared here the last time and those fans that witnessed that game will be right there on deck for this contest. Manager Wynne of the Drugs has announced that Shrader, the hurler who forced the local team into extra frames will be brought along but may not be used as a starting hurler. Owens has been starting most of their games and doing so good a job that Shrader has been used mostly in a relief role. However at the clip the locals have been hitting so far this season it may be a wise thing to bring along Mr. Shrader and possibly one or two others.

Ten men tied for second place in the high jump at the last national collegiate track meet at Chicago.

QUALIFIERS NAMED FOR OHIO AMATEUR

Nine Toledoans and Eight Clevelanders Head List of 32 Eligibles.

TOLEDO, O, June 26—Thirty-two qualifiers were primed and ready today "to do or die" for the championship of the annual Ohio amateur golf tournament at the Toledo Country Club here.

The field, which verily represents some of the best Ohio's golfdom has to offer, includes three ex-champions, each of whom was beset with but a single thought—"to repeat". It also contains 20 others, who have the stuff of which champions are made.

Nine of the qualifiers are Toledoans. Eight others are Clevelanders and the rest are from towns and cities scattered from boundary to boundary of the state, namely: Ashland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Akron and Columbus.

For instance there is Jock Munro, rugged Akron veteran and champion in the years 1918 and 1923, who slammed out a 71 yesterday, to top his 75 of Tuesday, and Ike Jack Cummins, 22-year-old Clevelander, for the medal in the tournament. These two had 149 each, Cummins cracking a 73 yesterday to add to his 76 of Tuesday.

Harold Weber of Toledo (four-time title-holder), ended the day with 78-78—156, while dangerous Eddie Liebenthal of Cleveland, finished 77-78—155.

WASHINGTON ROWERS FAVORITES TO LEAD CREWS AT REGATTA

Lasting Power of Northwestern Outfit Figured To Beat Navy, Columbia.

By The Associated Press

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 20—The biggest regatta in the annals of American college rowing drew a record throng to the banks of the Hudson here today.

There were plenty who were willing to pick the towering crew from the far northwest to crush through for the first time since 1926. The odds on Washington shortened to something like 2 to 3 against the field.

The position of second favorite was held by the Navy while Columbia and California also were regarded highly.

Neither of the Pacific coast crews were rated quite up to the Navy and Columbia eights, coached by the Glendons, father and son, when it comes to smoothness of rowing form, but many felt that Washington's greater power would be enough to win.

In the Washington boat were six of the eight men who rowed in the varsity crew of last year when the Huskies finished second to Columbia and the newcomers are sophomores of Gargantuan proportions.

While main interest centered on the classic four mile grind for varsity eights, the three mile junior varsity race and the two-mile dash for freshman crews also came in for a heavy share of conjecture.

32 ROUNDS CARDED FOR STEAM SHOVEL A. A. SHOW TONIGHT

Six-Round Bout Between George Barber and O'Toole May End in Kayo.

Can K. O. Terry stop Jesse McMurty just like he has all other lightweights that have challenged his sensational rise in Ohio ring circles or will the Cincinnati Irishman hand the Portsmouth battler the first defeat in his young career? Opinion seems to be divided on the outcome of this ten round scrap which will constitute the main go on the Steam Shovel show card at the Shovel gym tonight.

Both of these boys are all set for the battle of their lives and it's going to be a badly disappointed crowd if one of the two doesn't find himself a victim of old man 10 count before the festivities come to their scheduled close. Both managers are claiming a victory for their boys, which is the way of all managers, but this time both of them seem to have good enough reason to hope for a victory. Jude Baseman points with pardonable pride to Terry's record of no defeats in 27 starts, and Dunny Davis points with equally pardonable pride to the long list of McMurty's victims. These include Syd Conn, Canadian lightweight champion, Homer Ronan of Newark, Howard Mitchell, Tate Langford, Jimmy Neal, and such.

Feathers in Semi

The eight round semi will find two featherweights throwing gloves at each other when Jimmie Rodgers tackles tough little Buddy Hill. This bout is likely to be eclipsed however by the preceding bout of six rounds between George Barber of Portsmouth and Jerry O'Toole of Cincinnati. Barber has only fought ten fights but eight of them have ended via the K. O. route. O'Toole will constitute his toughest opposition so far.

Two four-round prelims will find "Thunder" and "Lightning", two colored comedy stars from Chillicothe mixing it up and two bantams tackling each other. These last named boys are Johnny Devlin of Canada and Ted Dawson of Fullerton, Kentucky. Devlin is said to throw his punches from the floor on up while Dawson is just ever so willing to stand in there and slug.

The advance sale indicates a good crowd for the card which will get under way at 8:15 with Pete Wagner of Chillicothe, a registered referee of the State Boxing Commission handling all bouts.

MAXIE ROSENBLOOM WINS CHAMPIONSHIP BY EDGING SLATTERY

Light Heavy Crown Goes to New York Scrapper by Small Margin.

BY HYPE IGOE

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 26—Max Rosenbloom held the world's light heavyweight title today, winning the crown last night when he outpointed Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo in 15 rounds of pretty boxing.

It was a beautiful feud of waltzing, feinting, blocking, jabbing and countering.

It was close—oh so close. Patsy Haley voted to make Slattery the new champion while George Keller and George Patrick, the judges, cast their votes for the New York boy.

My own tab had them going into the final round with six rounds for each and two even. I had them fighting in the final period for the crown and thought Jimmy had won when the round ended.

Slattery who had won the title by defeating Lou Scozza, has twice failed in battles for the world's crown at this weight.

He lost when he met Tommy Loughran for it and last night he saw the chip through his fingers as Rosenbloom went hop skipping out of the ring, the happiest man in America.

A world's crown has been a long time getting around Rosenbloom's skimpy locks. Slattery made a bid for the huddle in the closing rounds. He had purposely saved himself for the finish and my score had him taking the ninth, tenth, twelfth, fourteenth and fifteenth rounds.

Max did his best work in the second, fourth, fifth, sixth, eleventh, thirteenth rounds.

He got off flying and Jimmy finished coming like the wind. I'm afraid that Jimmy's determination to hold himself in reserve for a late rush, cost him the title.

He drew it too fine and Max walked in under the gilded kelly.

RADIO PHOTOS PERFECTED

VIENNA MAN DEVELOPS SUCCESSFUL EQUIPMENT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Photographs by radio received without a blemish and nearly as good as the originals are now said today

Equipment developed by Capt Otho Fulton of Vienna who is continuing his research in New York city for years of work aboard produces these results

Pictures being received are built up before the eyes of the operator through the use of chemically treated paper in a minute No developing or fixing is necessary

The received photographs appear as a soft and even under a magnifying glass all the many fine lines that compose the picture are discernible In fact Captain Fulton by means of a series of reflecting mirrors and a projector can throw the picture on a large screen as it is being received

Few Defects

Despite the enlargement many times the original size of 1½ by 6¼ inches few serious defects are to be noted

Captain Fulton has designed his receiving apparatus so that it can be attached to any type of a set broadcast or short wave for the reception of photographs It contains an automatic synchronizing device to keep the picture drum revolving in step with that at the transmitter the synchronizing signal being sent as a part of the picture

Both the receiving and the transmitting equipment is portable At the transmitter a photoelectric cell makes an electrical copy of the photograph It passes the signals to a modulator which in turn feeds them to a broadcast transmitter

How It's Done

The reproducer which is attached to the radio set in place of a loud speaker contains an electrically operated traveling stylus that builds up the picture

At the transmitter the photo is wrapped around a drum that revolves under a light beam which is reflected to the photoelectric cell The reproducer also contains a drum around which is wrapped the chemically treated paper to copy the picture

Captain Fulton explained that besides photos his equipment had been used for transmitting hand written messages and sketches

Photographs of Marion Nixon movie star is transmitted by radio with equipment developed by Capt Otho Fulton of Vienna It was received on board the steamer Commonwealth in Long Island sound from Passaic N J on the reproducer shown at lower left

Other prints weather maps and other things loring a wide variety of tests in Europe Pictures have been sent 11,500 miles from London to Sydney Australia 2 00 miles to ship at sea and 1,000 miles by telephone wire to Madrid

Tests Made in U S

Tests conducted in America with the apparatus which is known as the Fultongraph have included transmissions from the Detroit station at Passaic N J on 157 meters

In June Captain Fulton devoted a lot of his efforts toward the saving on the former's sister Mrs Florence Hickman who underwent an operation at the Mercy hospital Fulton last week

Centenarian Prescribes Hygiene for Longevity

CHICAGO—One hundred and five years old and still enjoying life in addition to exercising a wide variety of talents

This is the unique record of Mme Marie Charlotte de Gollier Davenport here to tell Chicago women some of her experiences and to explain to them how she is able after more than a century of this mortal life to look forward to more years of activity

The answer Mme Davenport says is hygiene With medical degrees from both the University of Vienna and the Sorbonne of Paris she speaks with authority on this subject Her rules for longevity are as follows

Curb your emotions they can be your greatest ally or your worst enemy

Learn to understand your body Keep it clean Take three baths a day if necessary and drink plenty of water

Use your body and brain to the limit and then rest completely

Eat with circumspection A sample day's diet consists of a glass of water for breakfast raw vegetables a glass of milk and a wholewheat bis uit for lunch and a dish of lettuce a raw onion coffee and cake for dinner

Talents Versatile

Born in St Petersburg Russia on September 12 1825 this unusual woman still dances recalling steps long since forgotten by the present generation rides horseback not bad lating to take an occasional hurdle, plays a good game of billiards paints in water color and oil plays the piano with a truly professional touch and speaks and reads Russian German Spanish French and English

Mme Davenport also recalls enough Greek and Latin to quote from the classics in those languages and discusses fluently on numerous learned subjects She reads daily and is an enthusiastic theater-goer Her vision is almost normal although she was almost totally blinded two years ago by poison ivy Her remarkable vitality enabled her to regain her sight through careful treatment

Curriculum Change Sought by Editors

NEW HAVEN Conn—The latest crusading editors of Yale Daily News are out to reform the Yale curriculum by proposing an open mind concentration plan by which thirty men would be chosen by the college dean from each class that finishes its sophomore year and be free from all routine requirements except that the next two years consist of some educational problem of the student The plan provides that the faculty should require the students to work for a comprehensive examination or prepare a thesis and that grades be given either when their work is done or at the end of each year The only actual requirement is residence in New Haven
